DETAILED ACTION

1. An action on the merits of claims 1-33 considered readable on Species G (Figure 21) is included in this office. Election was made without traverse. All submitted prior art has been considered.

2. COMMENTS INTENDED TO ADVANCE THE PROSECUTION:

Although the examiner readily appreciates that applicant may choose to prosecute claims of the broadest scope which applicant believes applicant is entitled to, the examiner respectfully suggests that applicant, applicant's representative and assignee, review the exceedingly broad scope of at least claims 1 and 20. Making U-turns is well known throughout the United States as well as in numerous countries in which automobiles are available. Note that the articulation between a tractor and trailer facilitates generating U turns while at the same time reduces the turning radius.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Marton(US005278554) or Gerum et al(5747683) or JP 62-255285 to Kawamura or under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Lee(US006659245).

As indicated, making U-turns and recognizing or knowing that a U turn is being initiated is conventional as taught by each of the references to Marton(US005278554) or Gerum et al(5747683) or JP 62-255285 to Kawamura and Lee(US006659245).

Assuming that differences exist between the instant claims and noted references, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one having ordinary skill in the art to which the invention pertains to modify the vehicle components such as steering, braking, drive torque, throttle, steering wheel actual or modeled characteristics and rates to achieve the type of U-turn desired as to yaw, speed of turning or vehicle speed as desired to achieve safe turning so as to avoid accidents and reduce discomfort to the vehicle operator or vehicle structure if unmanned.
